

Are you a parent of a child with autism?

Does your child engage in challenging behavior at home?

Researchers at May Institute are evaluating a program that supports parents in addressing and reducing challenging behavior.

We want to hear from you!

We are looking for parents of children with autism between the ages of 3- and 10-years old.

What does the research involve?

RUBI is a research-based parent training program that we will provide remotely using computers and video-conferencing software that we will provide.

Training sessions occur once per week. Research staff will meet with you online and teach you strategies for your child.

We will also ask you questions about you, your child, and your family. You will receive giftcards for your time completing forms.
